THE WORLD OF SOCIETY

MISS ROOSEVELT AT MRS. TOWN-SEND'S DANCE.

A Wedding Today at Representative Hull's Home-Dinners-Personal Notes.

Miss Roosevelt attended an afternoon concert yesterday and was at Mrs. Townsend's small dance last night. She abates none of her usual strenuousness, in fact, in any detail of her ordinary routine. The east room, which is usually open to visitors, was closed today because the coming and going of people-very largely increased lately-would seriously interfere with its use by the family, etc., in completing the preparations for the wedding. The wedding gifts continue to pour in. A dispatch from Cincinnati says that Mr. Longworth purchased in that city from the family jeweler a necklace of evenly matched diamonds in a novelty mounting, which has been sent to the White House. Miss Roose-velt already wears a necklace which would answer this description. The gift of the Taft party has been seen by many others beside the donors and is a fine gold chain necklace with diamonds at intervals and an aquamarine pendant surrounded with small diamonds.

Mrs. Townsend was hostess at a dance last evening, when she entertained eighty of the younger set, the particular friends of her daughter, in whose honor the affair was given. The beautiful drawing rooms, library, dining and ball rooms were massed with American Beauty roses and white lilacs, and the palatial marble halls were set with splendid specimens of azaleas. The Marine Band, behind a screen of graceful palms, played most inspiriting selections, which gave a decided zest to the dancing. Supper was served at 1 o'clock at small tables, after which the cotilion was danced, led by Lieut. McCawley and Miss Townsend. The favors were unique and pretty ones. Like all Mrs. Townsend's entertainments the dance was a most elegant affair.

The charity ball at the New Willard tonight is the one event in which all society is interested. Everything points to its complete success. The hots and hostesses of numerous dinners will take their guests on to the ball. Both of the ball rooms will be used, and the music will be furnished by the United States Marine and Engineer bands. Among the sixty patronesses, many of whom will be present at the ball,
are the wives of ambassadors, cabinet officers, justices of the Supreme Court, senators and representatives, and others promitors and representatives, and others prominent in social life. Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Lothrop Bradley and Mrs. Leech will receive the guests, and Mr. Alexander Legare, chairman of the floor committee, will be ably assisted by the 200 young men who constitute his committee.

EXPRESSIONS OF REGRET.

Resolutions of Washington Patent Law Association.

The members of the Washington Patent Law Association have adopted resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Solon W. Stocking, senior member of the board of examiners-in-chief, and to the memory of the late Dr. James B. Littlewood.

As to Colonel Stocking it was set forth, among other things, that his abilities and energy would have won eminence and success in business anywhere, and it was fortunate for the patent office that he was without ambition to get rich, but was content with a moderate income and the per-formance of his duty.

The committee that drafted the resolu-tions as to Colonel Stocking, consisted of Messrs. Ellis Spear, W. A. Bartlett and George P. Whittlesey.
